POPE TO TELL OF HOPES FOR GLOBAL PEACE

INSIGNIA OF OFFICE GIVEN TO 32 NEW CARDINALS

BY EDMUND LAURA
Vatican City, Feb. 19 (AP)—Vatican attaches said tonight they understood Pope Pius XII would broadcast to the world tomorrow a major pronouncement on the position of the Roman Catholic church in the uneasy global situation.

The Pontiff, they said, was expected to speak at 11:30 a.m. EST, from the Papal throne in the historic Hall of Benedictions where the newly created cardinals, including four from the United States, will gather to receive their first insignia of office.

Congratulations poured in today from all parts of the world to the 32 new princes of the church who were made cardinals at a precedent-setting Consistory yesterday.

Blessings Extended

The new cardinals, including those from the United States, spent the morning receiving felicitations from be-ribboned members of the diplomatic corps and members of the Roman nobility.

This afternoon Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York broadcast an address from the North American College in Rome, eulogizing the Pope and expressing his gratitude for being elevated to the Purple.

The other new United States cardinals—John Cardinal Glennon of St. Louis, Samuel Cardinal Stritch of Chicago, and Edward Cardinal Mooney of Detroit—extended blessings to members of their archdiocese.

The Pontiff's addressees will come after he places the heads of 29 of the new cardinals in a colorful ceremony. Two of the 32 were unable to come to Rome for the ceremonies because of illness and a third, Jose Cardinal Caro Rodriguez of Chile, became ill yesterday after he was notified of his election and is not expected to attend.

World Unrest Disturbing

The Pope will speak in reply to the dean of the new cardinals, Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, Patriarch of Cicilia in Armenia.

Vatican sources said that the Pope was so preoccupied with the state of the world in this troubled postwar period that he had decided to use the occasion for an address along broader lines.

The number of new cardinals in Rome for the ceremonies was raised to 30 today with the belated arrival of the Hungarian primate, Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, who was delayed, his aide said, by the slowness of Russian authorities in giving him permission to leave Budapest.

Spellman celebrated early mass today at the Church of Santa Susanna, for 20 years the American church in Rome. The church will be the titular See of Cardinal Mooney.

The new cardinals will receive a biretta and a cardinal's ring tomorrow; they will receive the red hat at Thursday's public Consistory.

FRENCH LEAVE SELFRIDGE

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Feb. 19 (AP)—A retreat ceremony today marked the departure for France of the last French forces stationed at Selfridge Field. Capt. Jean E. LeMartelot, commander of the last French contingent, presented the flag of France to Col. Douglas Johnston, commanding officer of the field.

At the peak, there were 700 officers and 2,300 enlisted men in the French detachment.

TAX FINANCING OF VETERANS' BONUS URGED

LEVY ON CIGARETS PROPOSED TO PAY FOR WAR DUTY

Lansing, Feb. 19 (AP)—One veterans bonus proposal died in a House committee today but another—to be financed by a state cigarette tax—sprang up in the Senate.

A House committee voted five to four against reporting a CIO-sponsored resolution demanding a public vote in November on a constitutional amendment to pay Michigan ex-servicemen $15 per month up to a $500 maximum.

Senator George N. Higgins, Ferndale Republican, presented to the Senate a bonus amendment resolution which would give veterans a maximum of $250 for continental and $500 for foreign service.

"Let People Decide"

It was sent to the judiciary committee whose chairman, Harry F. Little, East Lansing Republican, gave it but "slim" chance of being reported the floor.

Higgins declared that "sooner or later members of the legislature must face the (bonus) issue and I see no reason for a delay."

"I do not believe in spending $190,000,000 of the taxpayers' money without providing a means of raising it," he continued. "Therefore, let the people decide for themselves whether they want a bonus and whether they want to vote the taxes to pay for it."

He estimated that a three-cent per package cigarette tax would raise $15,000,000 per year.

One Republican, John W. Bansbach, of Jackson, joined three Democrats on the House committee for revision and amendment of the constitution in supporting the bonus measure. Tracy M. Doll, Detroit, who introduced the resolution, Albert J. Zale of Hamtramck, and John T. Bresnahan of River Rouge voted for the measure while Ural S. Acker of Kalamazoo, Richard H. Deadman of Alpena, Homer L. Bauer of Charlotte, Frederick T. Miles of Saugatuck and Loomis K. Preston of St. Joseph, committee chairman, all Republicans, voted against it.

Acker sought to amend the resolution to finance a bonus bond issue by a one-cent increase in the sales tax, which Doll claimed "killed the measure."

May Adjourn Thursday

Preston said the committee felt that an insufficient number of veterans had returned to the state for an immediate decision on a bonus, the American Legion had not expressed its sentiment, and the committee was not certain that all veterans were back of the proposal.

"No effort will be spared in apprehending these suspects," Clark said, "because we must show the world that we are not sentimentalists where the crime of high treason is concerned. In no period of American history have Americans ever condoned treasonable acts. We do not intend to begin now."

"As soon as the suspects are caught and evidence obtained, each will be returned to the District of Columbia to face a United States tribunal."

The 22 suspects do not include the eight Americans indicted for treason in 1943 in connection with alleged broadcasts for the enemy.

WAR TRAITORS HUNTED ABROAD

Agents Track Down 22 Americans Suspected Of Aiding Axis

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—Attorney General Tom Clark said today that 22 Americans suspected of wartime treason are being hunted in Europe.

Expressing his determination "to bring every single American who played the Axis game swiftly to trial," Clark told a reporter that the suspects are reported to have broadcast for the Nazis from Berlin, Munich, Vienna and Paris.

The attorney general disclosed that he plans to send a special representative to Europe soon to survey investigations of Americans reported to have collaborated with the Nazis and Fascists.

These investigations were started in January by three justice department attorneys, Clyde L. Gooch, of Salisbury, N. C., Samuel Ely of Bassett, Nebr., and Victor Woerheide, St. Louis.

One of the 22 were unable to come to Rome for the ceremonies because of illness and a third, Jose Cardinal Caro Rodriguez of Chile, became ill yesterday after he was notified of his election and is not expected to attend.

Detroit Weeds Out Narcotics Ring At Receiving Hospital

Steel Fabricating Firms Go Slow On Giving Pay Raises

Detroit, Feb. 19 (AP)—A pharmacist and several other employees accused of aiding a narcotics ring at the Redford branch of Receiving hospital have been discharged or have resigned. City Welfare Commissioner James E. Frazer disclosed today.

Frazer reported that a practice of "indiscriminate and unauthorized distribution" of several drugs was discovered last fall during an investigation of the hospital's care of patients.

"Every type of violation of the Federal Narcotics Act" was disclosed, he said. He informed the Federal Bureau of Narcotics of the condition, but told bureau agents he believed the commission "could clean up the whole mess."

The practice ended with the dismissal of employees involved, he added, and the hospital now is "in perfect running order."

Nazis Made Soap Of Human Victims, Russians Charge

Nuremberg, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Russian prosecution today charged the Nazis made soap from the bodies of their victims, and exhibited a 90-minute film showing the mass murders of thousands of men, women and children.

The Russian prosecution said it would conclude its case Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, following which the defense will proceed.

Hook Wants Post Of U. S. Judge In Western Michigan

Detroit, Feb. 19 (AP)—A second federal court bench seat will become vacant in Michigan March 1 when U. S. District Judge Edward J. Moine retires after 19 years' service.

Judge Moine, 72 years old and an appointee of President Coolidge in 1927, announced his forthcoming retirement today while state Democratic leaders were considering a successor to the late Judge Fred M. Raymond of the Western Michigan district.

At Washington, Rep. John Lesinski, of Detroit, conferred with Attorney General Tom Clark to press for the appointment of Rep. Frank E. Hook of Ironwood, to the western post.

A native of Ohio, Judge Moine moved to St. Johns, Mich., as a boy and later was a circuit judge there after attending the University of Michigan and practicing law for 16 years.

In a letter to President Truman asking that he be relieved, he said he needed a rest.

Democratic National Committeeman Cyril Bevan, of Michigan, announced at Washington Monday night that Charles Misner, of Grand Haven, prominently mentioned for Judge Raymond's post, would be unable to accept it.

Bevan, who has been conferring with Attorney General Tom Clark, said state Democrats "would not consider anyone who does not live in the western district" for the opening there. Rep. Frank E. Hook of Ironwood would be left in the running, but Detroit area candidates would be ruled out, according to Bevan.

Judge Moine's retirement, however, would leave Rep. Louis C. Rabaut of Detroit and others from this area among candidates for the Eastern Michigan judgeship.

"Hook wants the job, and I'd like to see him get it," Lesinski told reporters.

MEDIATOR IS IRKED BY SHORTNESS OF CONFERENCES

Detroit, Feb. 19 (AP)—A four-hour General Motors and CIO United Auto Workers conference adjourned late today with no agreement in the 91-day old strike and a federal mediator blocked in an effort to lengthen the sessions.

Special Federal Mediator James F. Dewey said both the company and the union declined his suggestion that they schedule extended negotiations, saying it was "more expeditious" to confer between meetings in separate groups.

Dewey's effort to get GM and the UAW to spend more time at the conference table coincided with criticism of the two sides by Secretary of Labor Schenck who said in Washington that they could settle the strike "in the next few days" if longer sessions were held.

Public Appeal Made

Public appeal to the disputants to "get down and carry on sessions as long as necessary" to end the strike was made by the labor secretary who has kept in close touch with the proceedings by reports from Mediator Dewey.

Dewey, who has been conferring with Attorney General Tom Clark, said state Democrats "would not consider anyone who does not live in the western district" for the opening there. Rep. Frank E. Mediator Dewey said another negotiating session had been arranged for 2:30 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

GM and the UAW have so far had 36 negotiating sessions. The longest was last Saturday when they were closeted for nearly seven hours. They met again Sunday for 3½ hours. These sessions, the first held on those days, gave rise to the belief a settlement was at hand.

RESORT OWNERS HEAR BISHOP

"Take Guess Work Out Of Tourist Trade" Is Plea

George Bishop, Marquette, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, was the principal speaker at a meeting of Delta county resort owners and others interested in the tourist business, held last night at the Escanaba city hall.

In pleading for the activation of a county tourist council he pointed out that when he first gave up teaching to devote his full time to the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau 25 years ago, there was hardly any organized activity to cope with problems meeting the tourist who would want to come to the Upper Peninsula to spend his money. There were no fire-towers or organized plan for coping with forest fires, no concrete highways, no forests, state or national.

He said he had seen the growth of the tourist business to where it is today or rather where it was in 1941 at its peak before the war. Mr. Bishop pointed out that in October of 1944 there was a meeting held of two to three days duration at Blaney Park where postwar problems were analyzed, and plans for the future were made.

An eleven man committee, two from the Upper Peninsula, was formed which met in the fall of 1944 and the spring of 1945. They recommended that a state tourist council to develop by legislative act to develop the tourist trade of Michigan on a statewide basis. This council was approved and it has met once a month for the past 14 months.

Last September it arrived at the conclusion that the time had come to eliminate guesswork in the development of resort and travel industry and that education be substituted. This was recommended to the legislature. It was approved that Michigan State College be granted funds for education, research and extension work as service to those engaged in the tourist business.

This would include help in meeting the following problems: landscaping, engineering, menus, proper place to build, water pump approvals, and many other problems which arise.

Mr. Bishop pointed out also that there are 576 running resorts in the Upper Peninsula alone which need help and advice from time to time.

"Michigan State College is developing this program of research and extension using the staff at the school and is devoting time to the resort and travel industry to answer the many problems pamphlets and bulletins are available to those engaged in resort business and will be from time to time with this study.

"The council to be appointed," Mr. Bishop went on to say, "would make possible development of the resort and travel industry in an educational way and would make a grass roots development of the industry which brings so many dollars into the surrounding area.

"The tourist industry affects all," he said, "hardware, gas station, lumber, drug food, etc. The tourist dollar is a rolling dollar.

"Not only is a council interested economically but in people coming to spend their dollars in the county, taking the guess work out of tourist management.

"The county committee is not a promotion group but a group to get together and spend time in settling problems in tourist business.

"You will see that there will be a place for the man who wants to spend just a little money just as well as there is a place for the man to whom money is no object," he stated. "Through this council plan it is hoped that the Upper against it."

The Senate received a resolution calling for final adjournment of the special legislative session at noon Thursday.

That chamber, ignoring an attorney general's opinion that its action was unconstitutional, approved a $6,908,000 appropriation for Michigan colleges to finance the additional cost of educating veterans. In addition to a $2,700,000 grant for Wayne University, which members said was constitutional, the chamber approved expenditure of $1,125,000 to nine denominational colleges.

See Branch Included

Attorney General John R. Dethmers has held the constitution bar state grants to religious organizations or schools.

They include the University of Detroit, Adrian College, Albion College, Alma College, Calvin College, Emmanuel Mission College, Hillsdale College, Hope College, Laramazoo College and Olivet College. In addition, the Ferris Institute.

The committee will meet in the near future to organize itself into a functioning part of the tourist business in the Upper Peninsula.

It will act in conjunction with the State tourist council and be a guide to problems which arise in the tourist business.

Only other major changes from the measure as originally introduced were: $160,000 for utility investigation by the Public Service Commission; $450,000 for veterans tax exemption; and $87,500 for a compilation of Michigan statutes.

The Senate confirmed the appointment of Dr. Willard H. Dow, president of the Dow Chemical Company of Midland, to the board in control of the College of Mining and Technology.

It also approved a resolution urging the war department to designate a proposed new Michigan National Guard division as the 32nd (Red Arrow) division.

SALARY RAISES APPROVED

Lansing, Feb. 19 (AP)—A $7,822,231 deficiency appropriation including $2,700,000 for state employee pay increases—passed the House without dissent today, one of six bills and a joint resolution adopted without opposition.

The resolution, approved by the Senate, calls for a public vote in November on a constitutional amendment permitting the state to develop such internal improvements as harbors of refuge, aeronautical facilities and highways.

The lower chamber demanded the first Senate-House conference of the special legislative session by refusing to drop its amendments to a Senate bill reorganizing the state fair.

Before passing the measure, the Senate struck provisions putting the fair under the state department of agriculture, setting up an advisory committee and permitting the hiring of a state fair manager. All those sections were restored by the House but the Senate returned the bill today without acceding to the representatives' amendments.

Funds for state employees' salary raises were written into the deficiency appropriation bill by the House Ways and Means Committee, which earmarked $900,000 for the balance of the current fiscal year and $1,800,000 for the

Three Bills Passed

Three bills passed by the House have been through the Senate and await only Governor Kelly's signature to become law. One provides for moving the State Boys' Vocational School from Lansing and the acquisition of another site; another that veterans may retain professional or trade licenses issued before they entered service; and a third preserves state or public utility rights in land title transactions.

Two bills passed and sent to the Senate permit the State Aeronautics Department to receive surplus airports from the federal government and provide that school boards may use city registration lists when school district and city boundaries are coterminous and hold their elections on the same day.

Thomas J. Wilson, Civil Service director declared that the House-approved appropriation for salary increases means that "the money is there if we feel adjustments are necessary." He said a survey of state wage scales is in preparation but the commission is "far from ready" to make recommendations.

UNO Gets $9,000,000 White Elephant Of Geneva League

PALACE of the League of Nations at Geneva passing to UNO.

BY HENRY W. BAGLEY
AP Newsfeatures

London—The League of Nations is going to give the United Nations about $11,000,000, by the League's reckoning. That is the figure the League puts on its property and equipment, which it plans to turn over to its successor. The transfer should be complete by August 1. The biggest item in the League's assets is the famous white secretariat building and assembly hall at Geneva. The League values it at nearly $9,000,000, and as yet nobody has figured out what the United Nations will use it for. The International Labor Office would like to use the assembly hall and to have the facilities of the library. Another scheme put forward is establishment of an international university in the immense building.

$800,000 in Books

The other items on the League's assets are, by comparison, chickenfeed. Books in the library are valued at about $800,000; other real estate, including four villas, at about $660,000, and furniture and other equipment at about $440,000.

There are also smaller amounts for the equipment of the Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague and for stocks of stationery and supplies.

A committee of the League and another for the United Nations, in drawing up their joint plan of transfer, recommended that the League's assets be calculated at their cost to the League. That meant gifts to the League would be given to the United Nations without charge. Included is the library building, which John D. Rockefeller contributed.

Another that amount nor the value of other lesser gifts are included in the $11,000,000 estimate. UN, also, will acquire free the archives of the League and of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Figuring Credits

In making the transfer, the League takes on the job of figuring out what percentage of the total is to be credited to each country. In the case of states which are members of League but have not joined UN—like Switzerland, Sweden and Portugal—the joint plan merely says that the claims "should be dealt with otherwise by the League of Nations." Countries such as the United States, which were never members of the League, will get none of this credit in the United Nations books.

He was a diver and was engaged in attempting to tunnel under an LST sunk in 40 feet of water and 20 feet of mud. Steel wreckage collapsed, pinning two of Owen's mates.

Without the exciting thrills of battle or the onward rush of a flag, Owen, not knowing very well the danger, dove down in an attempt to save his mates.

One of them he managed to free after a bitter struggle. He turned to the second and as he did a fresh collapse began that sent a great weight of steel on top of both men. Owen managed to cover his friend's body and, thus protected, he was unhurt when a rescue crew got to the bottom. Owen bore the whole weight of the wreckage on his back. He lived 18 hours after he was brought to the surface.

"His memory will live in that select company of men whose deeds of valor since the days of Paul Jones have made glorious the tradition of the United States Navy," said Capt. Fairlamb as he made the presentation.

The gleaming medal and its bright ribbon was pinned about the neck of the father and the citation itself was handed to the mother. The ceremonies closed with the National Anthem and the passing of the ship's company in review.

Bowles Faces Test

THE toughest job in American governmental service today, outside of the presidency itself, is that of economic stabilizer, the position to which Chester Bowles was elevated recently. The job undertaken by Bowles is fundamentally a race to build up production before inflation can overtake the country, because production is the only answer to inflation.

The pressure groups operating against government controls of prices, wages and other economic factors are tremendous and if Bowles' job was tough when he served as OPA administrator, it is even tougher now that he has been advanced to economic stabilizer at a time when a number of leaks in the dikes have been created.

The new program of price and wage control as outlined by Bowles in Washington Monday is certain to be subjected to widespread criticism and opposition. Bowles does not plan to permit the 18½¢ per hour wage increase allowed in the steel industry to be established as new standard for workers throughout the country, unless such wage increases can be made without increasing prices in the three most important cost of living categories—rents, food and clothing.

Those who argue for a removal of all price control—and they represent a highly vocal group in this country—provide the tipoff concerning what would happen if such controls were eliminated. A prominent dairy official, for instance, reported the other day that the price of butter would go "no higher than $1.25 to $1.50 a pound" if price controls were removed from dairy products. With butter now selling for approximately 55¢ per pound, it is obvious that removal of price controls would immediately set off the inflationary spiral against which same-thinking people are fighting.

The argument that production, the only answer to inflation, cannot be accomplished under price control is untrue and anyone who takes the time to analyze the situation must admit it. Industrial and farm production rose spectacularly during the war under price control and even today production is at the highest point ever achieved in peacetime.

Aiding Home Industry

THE Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, chambers of commerce and other civic organizations are devoting much of their efforts these days to attract new industries to this region.

Some of the communities, notably Escanaba, Manistique and Iron Mountain, have been quite successful thus far with their industrial expansion programs. Escanaba has had three wood-working industries establish themselves here, having been attracted by the fact that there is still a considerable amount of timber in the surrounding region.

Officials of the Solar Furniture company, speaking at the meeting of the Kiwanis club, stated it is true there is enough timber in the area to supply the needs of many additional wood-working plants. Unfortunately, most of the timber is being shipped to Wisconsin, Indiana and other states, where it is converted into the finished product at factories furnishing considerable employment.

It is true, of course, that Upper Peninsula timber producers must take care of their old customers, but if Escanaba and other communities in this region are to undergo any industrial expansion the new industries must obtain an adequate supply of raw materials.

After new industries are induced to locate in the Upper Peninsula, it is equally important that efforts be made to keep them here.

Monarchs Still Strong

ONE of the surprises of the Belgian election on last Sunday was the strength shown by the rightist Catholic party, which is pledged to the return of King Leopold to the throne.

Winning 92 of the 202 seats in the chamber of deputies, the monarchist party was far out in front, with the Socialist party second with 70 seats. The Communists will have 23 members, the Liberals 16 and the new Democratic Union party only one.

The results indicate that many Belgian people still are loyal to the monarchial form of government, despite the fact that royalty has been much on the decline in Europe in recent years. King Leopold's role in World War II was clouded with suspicion after his quick surrender of his troops to Hitler. But apparently, many of his subjects believe he was entirely guiltless.

The election does not decide King Leopold's return to the throne, however. The Catholic party will attempt to force the holding of a referendum on the question, but political observers believe that the king would abdicate unless at least 85 per cent of the vote favored his return from exile. This will be the real test of the popularity of royalty in Belgium.

Other Side Of The Picture

SPEAKING of the restrictive legislation that overtook big business, there have been recent tragic reminders of a past in our industrial history which, it was hoped, was dead and decently buried.

The ancient and bloody feud between the railroad brotherhoods and the little Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroad has broken out again. Since Jan. 18, two pickets have been killed and four wounded by the gunfire of private company guards riding the trains with strikebreakers.

This is an unspeakable form of civil war, with the unarmed battling the armed. There is no provocation or justification for it, and it should be dealt with sternly. But isolated instances of punishment are not enough. What is needed, and quickly, are laws which will make current excesses of management and labor impossible, or at least controllable.

There has been much talk of "hasty and ill-considered legislation." It seems to us that Congress has not hastened unduly in attempting to solve the industrial crisis. Neither has it acted with great intelligence. It is about time that the two houses get together with some sensible haste and did something to end the present strife.

Landlords On Strike

ABOUT five hundred Detroit landlords are reported to have gone on strike in protest against OPA rent ceilings and refuse to rent their housing accommodations until all controls are abolished. They also threaten to refuse to pay their property taxes.

The landlords are not likely to arouse much public sympathy with their action, particularly in these times when there is a shortage of housing. Detroit was notorious during the war for its high rents, as any person who went there to work in the defense plants will testify.

Imposition of ceilings on rents was a necessity in Detroit. Quite likely, the disgruntled landlords in Detroit are merely peeved because they cannot take advantage of the current housing shortage by charging all the traffic would bear.

Other Editorial Comments

THE SHIRT TALE
(Grand Rapids Press)

From Washington comes the report that some 3,000,000 men's shirts repose on manufacturers' shelves while the shirtmakers and OPA argue prices. It seems the already fabricated shirts were made to sell at $3 and OPA insists that before they are marketed an equal supply of the less expensive varieties must be made available. OPA contends the prospective shirt buyer—which means practically every adult male in the country—should have a choice.

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

SAVED MANY LIVES—

"A month before, Prof. Arakatsu had delivered a speech in which he said, in connection with the atomic bomb, '... a few of these bombs have contributed to bringing the war to an end and saved numberless lives of two nations from the sacrifices which might have been inevitable if the war were continued. In this respect we must be deeply indebted to American science... pure scientific discoveries in the domain of Nuclear Physics and their application to many branches of science will induce human beings not only to extend their superiority in external life but also to develop their internal conception of nature profoundly. They may feel then new dignity and new honor in that they are human beings.'

When told of our mission, the old man who had delivered these words and who had devoted more than ten years of his life to the pursuit of knowledge of the nucleus of the atom, said, 'I do not understand, but if this action is taken by the order of General MacArthur and if it will contribute to good will between America and Japan, I shall be glad to see my apparatus taken.' With those words, tears came to his eyes, and at least one member of the party recalled a cry of, 'Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do.'

—GROVES WAS RESPONSIBLE

Michels, a commander in the Navy who received the Legion of Merit for his services, writes that, the following day, the instructions were re-examined and part of the equipment restored. Three days later, the Cyclotrons were destroyed.

What Michels did not know was that MacArthur was merely carrying out an order signed by Secretary of War Patterson. Responsibility for that order rests on Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, who directed the atomic bomb project.

Congress can prevent such tragic errors by passing Senator McMahon's bill to control atomic energy which has the backing of President Truman.

NOTHING NEW

—Parents who have watched their children graduate in and out of the star-gazing period can tell you that it may be either ludicrous or alarming—depending on the reaction of the parent. The wise parent will hark back (it may be a long time and take a lot of harking) to his own youth. There he will inevitably find the same symptoms as displayed by his child—with Pearl White or Marguerite Clark instead of Esther Williams, and Valentine instead of Johnson, as the center of attention.

WHAT IS GLAMOR?

TO YOU CAN WONDER

—The coming cinema classic has been tentatively titled "This Time for Keeps." The very title indicates that it will be one of those timely, topical fresh-as-a-breeze romances which (if at all) will have little to do with Mackinac's exciting history under three flags—French, British, American.

Which is all right with us, because in a historical movie there would be no place to introduce the Grand Hotel swimming pool—and Miss Williams in a modern bathing suit. In fact a movie based on Mackinac's history might not even find a place for Miss Williams' particular talent, or Mr. Johnson's grin. And Xavier Cugat's drums would carry a too sophisticated rhythm for an Indian war dance.

Oh well, it can be predicted that Mackinac will have the best summer season in many years.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1936

THE STAR GAZERS—Announcement that Van Johnson, Esther Williams, et al, are to be at Mackinac Island next summer to "make a movie" has Upper Peninsula bobby soxers panting at the very prospect. Imagine! Van Johnson in the flesh and breathing the same Northern Michigan air!

Thrilling, isn't it? If you're not thrilled it can mean only one thing. You are too old to become excited over the luminous stars that decorate Hollywood's ever-changing sky.

Dunathan and there is little likelihood that you will ever tuck a picture of Van Johnson (or Esther Williams) under your pillow "to dream on."

Right at this very moment (isn't it exciting?) a movie camera crew is photographing exterior winter scenes at the Grand Hotel at Mackinac Island. These will be spliced and jugged into the completed opus as background for the love-making of you know who. Taken back to a studio in California, the pictures will be projected on a large screen and Miss Williams and Mr. Johnson will make love on Mackinac minus Mackinac leaves off and Hollywood begins.

It required a process called photography, and a community called Hollywood, to make glamour an industrial rather than a personal attribute. Now the movies, by the alchemy of press-agency, have transmuted the base metal of every blonde into the gold of box-office glamour. And the movie industry itself seems intent on out-Hollywooding Hollywood.

THE STAR'S THE THING—In what has been fondly described as "the good old days," the play was the thing. Under the touch of the movie producer the star's thing that's important.

We recall seeing a glamourous starring Mr. Johnson and Miss Williams which, it now appears, is to be transplanted to a Mackinac Island setting. There was a hotel with Lauritz Melchior and Xavier Cugat (Melchior sings, Cugat swings), a swimming pool for Miss Williams (she really swims), and a uniform for Mr. Johnson. Shuffle the movie deck and about the only change in the plot will be different hotel—and Mr. Johnson will be out of uniform.

With such talent it really won't make much difference about the locale. The Grand hotel at Mackinac will do as well as one at Lake Placid or Palm Springs. The camera lens will still concentrate on Miss Williams' curves, and Mr. Johnson's photogenic grin. The two will dance to Mr. Cugat's orchestra, and listen to Melchior's

HANDLING THE BEAVER SITUATION

Being of the strong belief that the beaver situation can be handled by the chairman of the conservation commission and the commission's orders carried out by the director of the conservation department, in each of our lake states, I state my beliefs herewith.

A house wife manages her home a farmer his farm and a business man his business. There is not one stream in Minnesota, Wisconsin or Michigan managed by their conservation departments. They have no real beaver program.

They all treat a river as a single unit. How wrong we would be to regard a federal highway as worth much if we did not have state, county and town roads feeding it. A river has its feeders too and they are as valuable to the river as side roads to a federal highway.

If a house wife manages her home a farmer his farm and a business man his business. There is not one stream in Minnesota, Wisconsin or Michigan managed by their conservation departments. They have no real beaver program.

William M. Leiserson, an outstanding figure in labor relations, points out in connection with the Railway Labor Act that the proof of the law is in the pudding. If the unions threaten strikes that they do not intend to pull, in order to bring conciliation into alternative, you might conclude that the unions consider the state's conciliation processes, under the law, to be a real success.

From 39 strikes in its first year of operation, Minnesota showed an unbroken drop to seven strikes in the fifth year. In the fiscal year 1944-45, when labor unrest everywhere was strong, the number rose only to 10 strikes. Likewise, Minnesota's percentage of all strikers in the country has fallen spectacularly.

But critics, and also many objective observers, note that Minnesota is not subject to many of the disturbing influences that have troubled Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, and other labor centers. Labor's no-strike pledge, and unusually capable federal mediation service, also are given much credit.

General Robert E. Lee started the first classes in journalism in the United States.

Centuries before America was discovered, the Chinese were eating spinach.

There isn't a fisherman who doesn't know that brook trout die if beaver dams warm up the waters of a river to temperature over 70 degrees. And every fisherman knows that, when trout cannot run up the stream to spawn, our river dies, for fishing. Who has ever seen trout jump over a beaver dam?

Nothing but July and August temperatures will give one the answer and this is not now done on an entire river system. Nor will anything but an actual trip over every brook, creek and river tell you how many dams there are to the mile on that system.

Nor can any conservation department tell you on which rivers, beavers and their dams can be left for the trappers, an annual revenue to be had. Nor can they tell you on which lakes beaver can be moved and furnish an annual crop.

These are such simple problems to solve. The commission can give orders to have the temperature of the water taken on just one river and all of its feeders. One hot week in late July would enable two men to cover a river like the Pike, in Marinette county, Wisconsin, or the Whitefish, in Delta and Alger counties in upper Michigan.

Then the beaver dams could be counted and surveyed in another week or two. By the first of September the commission could have the facts and could draw up a beaver management plan for that entire river system. In two seasons every trout system could be surveyed, for beaver dams can be counted every month in the year, as we shall see in the next article.

"Rented the first day" said Smith.

Effectiveness Of Stassen Act Disputed By Experts

BY S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington, (NEA)—Minnesota's Stassen Act seems to be the only adaption of the Railway Labor Act to general use that has a record of actual trial. Its effectiveness is a matter of dispute.

Admirers point to the unquestioned decrease both in actual strikes and in the state's share of all strikes, during the lifetime of the Stassen Act. Opponents do not dispute the figures, but say that credit should go to other factors.

The Stassen Act borrows much from the Railway Act. It has the conciliation, arbitration, and fact-finding board sequence, all voluntary except that once arbitration has been accepted, any award is binding.

But there are in the Stassen Act certain additions and modifications that are among those frequently advocated for a national law to bring the current strike wave under control.

There is, for instance, a statement of unfair labor practices on the part of management and on the part of labor. The regular law enforcement agencies are supposed to apply these through the courts. This section was one major reason why organized labor feared the act. Its present unenthusiastic acquiescence is due, in no small part, to the fact that no apparent effort has been made to enforce the unfair practices code.

Warning Needed

Unlike the Railway Labor Act, the Minnesota law puts something of a strait-jacket about the conciliation process.

It requires at least 10 days of collective bargaining before strike notice can be served and the Conciliator asked to intervene. It requires, in effect, that there should be a strike vote before he steps in.

There can be no legal strike or lockout until at least 10 days' notice has been given by one party to the other, which means 20 days after demand has been served. Such warning having been given, the strike or lockout has to be effected within 90 days, or the process must be begun over again.

If, in a case where great public interest is involved, the Conciliator asks the Governor to appoint an emergency board, for 30 days after that time no strike or lockout can be called legally.

William M. Leiserson, an outstanding figure in labor relations, points out in connection with the Railway Labor Act that the proof of the law is in the pudding. If the unions threaten strikes that they do not intend to pull, in order to bring conciliation into alternative, you might conclude that the unions consider the state's conciliation processes, under the law, to be a real success.

From 39 strikes in its first year of operation, Minnesota showed an unbroken drop to seven strikes in the fifth year. In the fiscal year 1944-45, when labor unrest everywhere was strong, the number rose only to 10 strikes. Likewise, Minnesota's percentage of all strikers in the country has fallen spectacularly.

But critics, and also many objective observers, note that Minnesota is not subject to many of the disturbing influences that have troubled Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, and other labor centers. Labor's no-strike pledge, and unusually capable federal mediation service, also are given much credit.

Harold Stassen, Minnesota liberal who's labor legislation suggests a pattern for national law.

Douglas Hall, general counsel to the CIO in Minnesota, cites three major disputes in which unions refused to accept state emergency board findings, and got better terms from the federal agencies. To which the state law's advocates retort that the very fact that there was, in the background, a more generous agency, may have influenced the unions to contest awards that would otherwise have been acceptable.

Breed Resentment

The CIO—and Minnesota labor generally—claims that the statutory delays and the requirement for a strike call before conciliation is begun are very bad. They lead employers to procrastinate to the last minute and they oblige labor to build up sentiment sufficiently to call a strike, in order to get mediation. Both of these breed resentment and ill will that make mediation less probable of success, that make arbitration harder to agree upon, that may tend against adoption of an emergency board award.

There are about 20 strike threats for every strike. It is up to you to believe either that the Stassen law succeeds in stopping 19 strikes out of every 20 threatened, or that the unions threaten strikes that they do not intend to pull, in order to bring conciliation into alternative, you might conclude that the unions consider the state's conciliation processes, under the law, to be a real success.

Consideration of these and many other factors, and the opinions of well-informed experts, suggest this conclusion:

That the features borrowed directly from the Railway Labor Act have proven to work well, in Minnesota, for general industrial disputes. But that the innovations and modifications have by no means proved themselves in six years of use.

RADIO PHONES PUT IN TAXIS

Enable Driver To Talk
With All Telephone
Subscribers

S. L. O. U. S.—Radiotelephone equipment will soon be installed in taxis, buses and service trucks here which will enable their drivers to make and receive telephone calls to and from any subscriber connected to the general telephone system in the urban area. The system will be known as the Urban Mobile Radiotelephone service, and is one of 30 installations in widely scattered cities, all to be in operation before next fall.

The Bell Telephone companies are making these extensive service trials, using Western Electric equipment for the installations in the vehicles. Similar frequency-modulated equipment is being designed, Western Electric announces, for coastal and harbor use on ships, and other applications are expected to include highway, railroad, airplane, police, fire and forestry service.

The mobile unit for installation in vehicles includes a radio receiver, a transmitter, antenna mounted above the car, and a control unit with an associated hand telephone. Electricity from the car battery furnishes the energy. Receiver and transmitter are mounted side by side in any convenient out-of-the-way place. The control unit and telephone handset are under the instrument panel within reach of the driver.

When the car is in use, a special switch is set so that the radio-telephone can be used or the driver called. To make a call the user picks up the handset in the usual way and gives the number wanted to the operator. When talking, a button on the handset is kept depressed, but when listening it is released.

When anyone wants the car from a house phone, operator is called in the usual way and given

POSTPONE OLD AGE 10 YEARS

Medics Say It Can Be Done By Regulating Weight And Diet

San Francisco—Old age could be postponed for five to ten years for a large part of the population by the application of present medical knowledge, says Dr. William J. Kerr, professor of medicine in the University of California Medical School.

Dr. Kerr says that the useful life span of persons incapacitated by some types of heart disease, such as hardening of the arteries, obesity, postural defects, and pulmonary emphysema, a destructive lung condition caused by labored breathing, could be lengthened, if medical science could secure public cooperation in the following:

1. Correction of postural defects.
2. A physical fitness program.
3. Application of present dietary knowledge.

Dr. Kerr says these steps would maintain the circulatory system in good condition for a longer period and cut down the weight which causes an overload on the heart; nearly all the destruction of postural distortion and obesity would be eliminated.

As an example of what can be done under such a program, Dr. Kerr cited a group of obese patients treated at the University of California Medical School.

These patients were generally in their fifties or sixties, who for years had been gaining weight and losing stature. Their skin was discolored from poor circulation, the veins in their necks were distended and lungs showed irritation from heavy breathing, and poor posture had irritated the base of the spinal column.

A dietary regime was prescribed which reduced their weight to a level approaching their early adult life, and they were fitted with abdominal supporting belts, which Dr. Kerr helped to develop. Postural training was instituted.

The results were remarkable, says Dr. Kerr. More or less incapacitated at the beginning, most of the patients were able to resume a gainful occupation, and their general health improved greatly.

"We need not await the discovery by science of the causes of heart diseases, high blood pressure, arthritis and other clinical states which are closely associated with the degenerative disease," says Dr. Kerr.

While it is encouraging to look forward to the days when scientific research may provide the definite answers on some if not all of these diseases, much can and should be done now, he added.

Children Of Wells Schools Contribute To 'March Of Dimes'

Students of the Wells Township Schools contributed $168.29 in the March of Dimes campaign, it is announced by Supt. L. E. Klug, who believes this the highest amount ever turned in by the children. About 75 per cent of the envelopes given out were returned and all money received was strictly through solicitation, with a number of the children in the township filling their $2.00 envelope. Last year's amount of $157.17 brings the total to $325.46 or an average of 78 cents per pupil for the two year period.

The contributions by schools were as follows:

NEGLECT CAUSE OF HEAD LICE

Control In Schools Not Enough; Must Extend Care To Homes

Pediculosis (infestation with lice) is spread by neglect and cured only by treatment which must extend beyond the school child and into the home, according to the Michigan Department of Health.

In Escanaba the school nurse periodically inspects the heads of students to determine if they have lice, and in the county schools the inspections are made by county health department nurses. The State Health Department reports that many schools are meeting the problem of head lice by excluding from school any child suspected of having lice.

Lice can never be controlled in a community by treating only the school children found infested, the any article continues. It is imperative that all members of the families be given treatment simultaneously to prevent reinfestation each other.

The bulletin lists several war-born remedies which have been found effective in eliminating lice: tincture phenyl cellosolve, Benzylbenzoate, A-200 pyrinate, and DDT powder with talc.

After any treatment, hats and caps should be cleansed to prevent reinfestation, the article stresses. Placing the hat in a hot oven will kill the lice. Another method is to sprinkle DDT powder inside the seams or folds.

The head louse averages about one-eighth inch long and varies considerably in color. Infestation usually starts on the back of the head or behind the ears. Lice multiply rapidly—each female lays from 50 to 150 eggs or nits. These nits are attached to the hair and where there are many lice the hair next to the scalp is stiff with eggs.

The usual symptom of head lice is itching of the scalp. Serious secondary infection may result if an infested head is neglected.

RETAILERS WILL HOLD MEETING

Merchandising Problems To Be Discussed In Chicago

Headaches which are currently causing sleepless nights among retailers, wholesalers, and others engaged in the distribution of goods and services in the midwest will be brought into the open for frank discussion at a Marketing Conference to be held at the Hotel Morrison in Chicago, on March 4. The all-day meeting, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will be open to all interested distributors.

Heading the list of problems to be considered is the controversy raging about OPA regulations. No one advocates runaway prices, such as have been experienced in several war-torn countries. But there is a strong feeling that the inflexibility of the present OPA administration is defeating its own purpose by blocking the only safe backfire against inflation—the prompt production of manufactured goods in quantities sufficient to satisfy mounting demands.

This controversial question will be discussed by Eugene A. Tetzlaff, who operated five retail stores in as many Illinois cities, who is well qualified by experience to speak for the distributor on the firing line.

Another field in which federal regulation is closely interwoven with merchandising is that of consumer credit. Restrictions on charge accounts and installment buying have a direct and obvious effect upon sales volume. Arguments for and against the immediate relaxation or revocation of present controls will be presented by Vincent Yager, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago.

Hanging over the head of the distributor like the fabled sword of Damocles is the tremendous accumulation of surplus goods now in the possession of the armed forces, but soon to be disposed of. Irresponsible dumping of these stocks could cause irreparable damage to thousands of business men, yet these articles cannot be permitted to rot unused while the American taxpayer foots the bill. Insight into this problem will be given by Melvin C. Pon, vice president and director of merchandise for Butler Brothers, Chicago.

Irish Hills Country Has Both Scenery And History

ST. JOSEPH CHURCH in Irish Hills is one of the most picturesque churches in all of Michigan, with its magnificent outdoor Via Crucis and its old burying ground in which sleep the Irish pioneers who settled that section of the state.

By The Old AAA Traveler

It's 1836. Young John Monaghan and a little group of scout-hearted Irish were seeking a place for a settlement. What they wanted was rich country, country which would produce bountiful crops—but they also desired some of the beauty of their beloved Killarney. They topped a hill and, spread out before them like a great green carpet jewelled with bits of turquoise, they saw the lush lands now known as the Irish Hills.

"This is it!" exclaimed young John Monaghan.

Yes, the Irish Hills of Michigan, a mere 50-odd miles out of Detroit on U. S. 112, is very similar in its topography and appearance to the Killarney hills from which John Monaghan and his companions hailed. Today the Irish Hills rank among America's beauty areas, and the Auto Club routes literally hundreds of thousands of beauty lovers from Michigan, Ohio and Indiana to find their summer vacation joys in those hills and along the beaches of the more than half-hundred lakes scattered through the section. Beneath the surface of these azure gem are bass and bluegills and other pan fish. Intriguing little roads lead from point to point in the hills and connect the towns surrounding them—Tecumseh and Clinton and Manchester and Napoleon and Vandercook and Somerset and Brooklyn and Addison and Manitou Beach and Onsted and Cambridge Junction and other smaller communities.

And there is history aplenty, and romance in the Irish Hills, for saintly Father Gabriel Richard knew and loved that hilly country and it was he who worked tirelessly to build a highway to traverse the hills—today U. S. 112. Close by St. Joseph Church is a great marble memorial to that doughty man of the cloth who so loved that country.

It is at St. Joseph Church that you find the world famous via Crucis winding its way over the hills and mirrored in the lake below. This impressive Way of the Cross was built under the direction of the Reverend Joseph Pfeifer, while he was pastor of St. Joseph's. Today this unusual shrine stands as an impelling tribute to the unflagging faith of the Irish Catholics who settled the hills and to the vision and loyalty of the priests who have labored among them through the years.

Stage Coach Tavern

Another definite "must" in the Irish Hills is the ancient Walker Tavern at Cambridge Junction, with its wealth of priceless antiques and its relics of a bygone day and its collection of Irish Hills documents and historic highlights.

Daniel Webster and Horace Greeley were guests in the tavern in the days when it was the most ornate tavern of its kind west of New York, and from that day the great and near-great of the world have thrived to the scenic grandeur and abiding peace of that country. Presidents and senators and financial giants, stars of the stage and stars of the operatic world have found peace and joy in the emerald hills and azurine lakes. In the old tavern you will find the "Murder Room", in which was played a grisly drama in a day when Michigan was young, a drama which to this day is shrouded in mystery.

A traveller, wealthy, judging from his garb, came to the tavern

American Folk
Songs Will Be
Sung By Trapps

Such popular American folk songs as "Home on the Range", "Ol' Black Joe", and "My Old Kentucky Home" will take their place alongside compositions of Bach, Mozart and Purcell on the program at Wm. W. Oliver Auditorium here on Monday night, Feb. 25, when the famous Trapp Family Singers give their concert under the auspices of Town Hall. For although their first renown was won for their inimitable renditions of old, pre-classical church music, and the rarely performed folk melodies of their native Tyrol, the seven singing Baronesses and their priest-conductor, Father Franz Wasner have been quick to recognize, on their concert travels through the United States and Great Britain, the wealth of charming folk music of the English-speaking peoples, and have from time to time added to their repertoire, in new choral transcriptions by Father Wasner, the best-loved American and English folk songs.

"We are surprised," Father Wasner says as their spokesman declares, "to note that Americans rather shy away from performances of their own folk tunes in the concert hall, regarding this type of music as unworthy of serious attention. At the same time, the American concert public revels in the so-called 'art songs' of Brahms and Schubert and Schumann, most of which had their origins and inspirations in the simplest folk music of Europe. It may be just the old story about baker's bread or the greener grass on the other side of the fence, but at any rate we, who have come from another continent and are just beginning to discover the wonders of this, find America's folk music as rich in thematic content and melodic grace as any we have heard anywhere in the world. The cowboy songs of the Western plains—the Kentucky mountain ballads—the throbbing spirituals of the southern Negroes—all of those rank as folk music of a high artistic order and should certainly claim a place in the serious appreciation of any concert goer who waxes enthusiastic about the chants of the Russian Burlaks, the Palkas and Czardases of Poland and Hungary, or the Bergerettes of old France. If most of our audiences have been too prone in the past to underestimate American folk music merely because its themes are so familiar and its sources so close to home, it may be that we, coupling these charming songs with great classics of the Old World and presenting them in a somewhat novel setting, can help promote for them the place which they rightfully deserve in the concert hall repertoire."

GI's Schooling Is
Far From DreamBY RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

It's not quite the warm, comfortable, convenient home he dreamed about when he was overseas—that dirty-green trailer in a row of dozens of others just like it.

That furnished room in a private home isn't the apartment or cottage he hoped to share with his wife and small son when he came back home.

In fact, the conditions under which thousands of G. I.'s and their families are having to live because the ambitious veteran is trying to get the education allowed him by the G. I. Bill of Rights is often so shamefully inadequate you can only wonder if the education is going to be worth the price the young family has to pay for it.

Sure, Uncle Sam is paying for it in one way. But in dozens of other ways the wives and husbands and babies are paying double.

Three persons crowded together in an ugly trailer, the young wife confined in it with a small child. And if she can scrape up money for a movie, going out to it alone while her husband studies at night, isn't quite the picture of home life either the veteran or his wife had in mind when they wrote each other "When this war is over..."

It's A Hard Test

Such living conditions and such strain to get by on too little money aren't giving these young marriages the best chance.

But you have to admire the young veterans and their wives—when you see the poor conditions under which many of them are living—for being willing to add another difficult period to the trying period of war in order that the man will one day have a better chance.

Now can you help but wish we could have done better—in the matter of housing—for the men who deserve so much better.

Marquette—Jeanette LaCaptain, figure skating instructor in Escanaba, will give an exhibition of fancy ice skating as an added attraction at the "Winter Wonderland Ice Follies," scheduled for the Palastra on Feb. 21, managers of the Hockey club announced yesterday.

Promoters say Mrs. LaCaptain, a native of Dallas, Texas, will put on an act that will compare with acts in Shipstead and Johnson's nationally known show, Iceepades. She is hired for the winter sports season by the city of Escanaba to teach figure skating.

Nylons Are New Exchange Medium
In This Country

BY RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

The power of the nylon stocking is an almost incredible thing. In Detroit a housewife who had ignored a new maid's stealing money from her three times in a row, hauled her into court when she walked off with a pair of nylon stockings.

In Salt Lake City a basketball fan unable to buy with mere money a ticket to the Utah-Brigham Young game, advertised: "Will exchange four pairs of 51-gauge nylons for four tickets to the Utah-B. Y. basketball game."

And the offer of a pair or two of nylons for information about an available house or apartment is no rarity among newspaper "Wanted" advertisements.

Apparently nylons have become our most precious commodity—with trading value far above that of money.

Endless Possibilities
With a few extra pairs (if you could get them) you ought to be able to:

Cut out your rivals for a girl's grateful attention. Get yourself a maid. Get a line on a place to live. Get a chance at some new tires for your car. Find a shirt—or even shorts. Get a ticket to any kind of sold-out entertainment or athletic event. Get yourself out of the doghouse.

That is, you could probably do

Marquette Couple
Married 50 Years

Marquette—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jennings, 220 Adams street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Saturday. The couple was married Feb. 18, 1896, in Neenah, by the Rev. Robert Wood, pastor of St. John's Episcopal church. The attendants were Mrs. Henry Broad, Neenah, and John Shellwood, Ishpeming. The bride's maid was here for the reception held Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Jennings have lived here the past 40 years. They have eight children, 13 grandchildren, and one great grandchild.

Children Home For Anniversary

The children are: Harry, George and Edward, Flint; Mrs. A. J. Schmeltzer (Evelyn), Escanaba; Mrs. R. P. Bennett (Elsie), Evansville, Ill.; Georgia, Chicago; Mrs. George Denny (Harriet), and Mrs. Arvid Savola (Dorothy), Marquette. All were home for the anniversary.

Because it had been many years since the entire family has been together, a picture of the group was taken, and a family dinner for 26 was served at 5:30 in the Guild hall.

The centerpiece was a large tiered wedding cake, iced in yellow and white, with the numerals "50" in yellow on the top. The gold color scheme was accented in the decore of cathedral candles and acacia.

An evening reception, attended by 125 guests, was held in the home of the couple's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Savola, 1316 North Front street.

Among the out of town guests who attended the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Schmeltzer, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schmeltzer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Westlake and daughter, Judith, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shiner, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Wilson and Mrs. Joseph Ambeau of Escanaba.

all of those things with a pair—or two or three—of nylon stockings, if you happen to be a man.

If you're a woman, though, chances are you would rather have the nylons than anything they would buy. That's why nylons have such a high trading value.

Colorful Hat Is Stunning If You

Make your hats and clothes pay homage to your hair, if it's gray.

Gray hair deserves stellar billing—and will get it—in dashing spring hats of vivid shades, chosen for life rather than trimming. The only color that needs firm rejection is brown. The styles and shapes to be scorned are any which are sedate or mature.

Make gray hair your badge of distinction by pointing it up with the clothes that you wear. To focus attention upon hair, keep lines of clothes simple. As for color of dress, there are no two which will frame gray hair more strikingly than black and navy blue.

But you can point up the drama of your hair by using touches of cracker-crisp white or delicate shades of lingerie frou-frou placed at your throat.

Just as yellow in clothes complements the honey-haired blonde, so does warm gray pay tribute to the woman whose hair is a nimbus of the same color. Again, brown in dress should be rejected for the same reason that it is verboten for hats: it throws a yellowish cast upon your hair.

Many are caused by too much pull from garters or by cutting from rough metal garter grips. Elastic might well be substituted for the tape garters on many wartime girdles. Wartime grips of rough metal may be replaced by grips taken from pre-war girdles, the specialists suggest.

The genial opera star favored with a program made up of arias from the operas and current popular melodies and devoted the latter half of his program to the presentation in costume of his role in Rigoletto.

BRIDGES SLATED TO PITCH AGAIN

First Group Of 30 Tiger Players Arrive At Lakeland, Fla.

Lakeland, Fla., Feb. 19. (AP)—With the world champion Detroit Tigers slated to report at 11 a. m. tomorrow for their initial drill of 1946 spring training, Manager Steve O'Neill suggested today that Tommy Bridges, the veteran right-hander, may pitch again for the Tigers this summer instead of coach, as originally planned.

"He hasn't formally been made a coach yet," O'Neill said, "although we had planned to use him in that capacity. If he wants to pitch some more it can be arranged. I don't see why he couldn't work a game a week."

Bridges, who has won 193 games for the Tigers since breaking into the majors in 1930, had expressed hope of continuing on the mound until he achieved 200 victories.

If the 39-year-old Tennesseean continues as a pitcher, the Tiger coaching chores will be in the hands of Art Mills and Frank DePere, but St. Norbert's has in-

Ambitious recruiting of athletic talent is still frowned upon in middle west colleges and universities, which is why Tom Stidham is not being invited to remain at Marquette University after his contract expires March 1. Stidham's recruiting program for athletic talent has become somewhat embarrassing to the university and the whole thing came to a head the other day when Pete Smith, one of Stidham's assistants, announced that he would not return to Marquette university because he did not like the situation there. That added to the university's embarrassment and left them with virtually no other choice than to release Stidham.

The man on the inside track for the Marquette job is Tom Hearden, former Green Bay East high school coach, who is now a Lieutenant commander in the Navy. Hearden recently signed a one year contract as athletic director and football coach at St. Norbert's college. DePere, but St. Norbert's has in-

Although only approximately 30 players are expected to report tomorrow with the first squad, consisting primarily of pitchers and catchers, O'Neill plans to split the squad into three divisions with three separate workouts when the remainder of the players report Feb. 27. One session would begin at 9:30 a. m., the second at 11 a. m. and the third at 2 p. m.

Aside from batmen, players on hand and planning to start working out tomorrow include Roy Cullenback, Dick Wakefield and Walter (Boot) Evers, outfielders, and Murray Franklin, infielder. Hal Newhouser, not eligible to work out until he signs his 1946 contract, is on deck and expected to sign momentarily.

Red-Headed Naval Trainee Is Elected Michigan Captain

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 19 (AP)—Pete Elliott, red headed naval trainee from Bloomington, Ill., tonight was named basketball captain for Michigan's 1946-47 team. Elliott, who has three years of competition remaining at Michigan, was a regular guard on this year's team.

The Wolverines also voted war veteran Dave Strack, Indianapolis, Ind., senior, the honorary captaincy for the season just concluded. Strack, whose athletic career here was interrupted by a tour of war duty, had been captain of the 1943-44 team, but left for service before the season began.

Acting Coach Bill Barclay also announced the awarding of the 13 letters to this year's squad which won 12 of 19 games and had a .500 rating in Big Ten play with six wins and six defeats. The lettermen are Strack, Elliott and Walkell, Kankakee, Ill.; John Mullany, Evanston, Ill.; Bill Walton, Mt. Vernon, Ind.; Bob Baker, Ann Arbor; Martin Feinberg, Cleveland, O.; Keith Harder, Washington, D. C.; Harold Westerman, Ann Arbor; Bob Harrison, Toledo; Gordon Rosecrans, Columbus, O.; Glen Selbo, Lacrosse, Wis., and Bill Dietrich, Euclid, O.

Marquette Won't Re-Hire Stidham As Football Coach

Milwaukee, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Marquette University athletic board voted tonight not to re-hire Football Coach Tom E. Stidham when his agreement with the school terminates March 1.

The Rev. Thomas F. Divine, S. J., board secretary, said the action was not a criticism of Stidham's record, but was due to "a conflict in policy."

Stidham came to Marquette in 1941 from Oklahoma University where he was head football coach and athletic director.

The board secretary said no successor had been selected.

Munising Breaks 37 Game Losing Streak Last Night

Munising broke a basketball losing streak of 37 games last night by winning over the visiting St. Joe team of Escanaba 42 to 30.

With three minutes left to play Mazzali tied the game with a basket and Kouri sank four baskets in a row to win for the Munising.

The enlargement of the city recreation center on So. 14th street is under consideration by the department of recreation. The present building is wholly inadequate to meet the expanding usage and attendance of all activities at the center is mounting rapidly. It is proposed to construct an addition to the building to be located on the adjacent vacant property which is owned by the city. The addition would not be a lavish one and the cost of construction, plus remodeling of the present building, would be in the neighborhood of $7,000. The establishment of a recreation center in North Escanaba is another problem that the department will have to meet before long.

The man on the inside track for the Marquette job is Tom Hearden, former Green Bay East high school coach, who is now a Lieutenant commander in the Navy. Hearden recently signed a one year contract as athletic director and football coach at St. Norbert's college. DePere, but St. Norbert's has in-

SPECIAL TRAIN TO ISHPMENING

Top Riders Competing On Suicide Hill Sunday

Ishpeming, Mich. — A special Chicago and North Western train will carry ski fans from Escanaba to Ishpeming, and return, on Sunday February 24 for the nationally famous ski meet on Ishpeming's Suicide Hill.

The train will leave Escanaba at 9:40 a.m. reach Ishpeming at 11:30. On the return trip it will leave Ishpeming at 8 and be in Escanaba at 9:40 p.m.

Those attending will see one of the thrills of the sports world when the best riders in America try to crack the four-year-old national record of 289 feet, made by Torger Tokle in Iron Mountain back in 1942. Tokle later lost his life in the Italian campaign.

Suicide Hill has been known for decades to the ski world as one of the great tests in this country. Annually some of the nation's outstanding performers have come here. Now something new has been added.

Visitors will see a gigantic hill, a scaffold towering high in the hills of the Iron Cliffs, abruptly breaking off about midway down. This break is the takeoff and from here the riders sail out into space and down to the landing, more than 225 feet long. Their jump is measured from the takeoff to the spot where their feet hit the landing.

Ishpeming has already been assured some of the finest riders in the country so that a brilliant performance is certain.

Plastics Research Will Be Expanded

Cambridge, Mass.—With plastic products now firmly entrenched as civilian construction materials, long-range research work to be undertaken here at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will produce information, it is expected, that will serve as a guide to the public in the proper applications of these materials. The research, it is announced, will deal with the fundamental engineering problems of plastics, and will develop tests similar to those now available for other structural materials.

None of the research will be aimed at development of new materials, it is stated. Only plastics now in existence, or which will become commercially available, will be studied. Results will be published in scientific journals, with data made available for industrial laboratories of participating companies while the research is in progress.

Father Badly Burned In Effort To Save Children

No inquest will be held in the accidental death of two young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brunette of Escanaba township, who were burned to death Monday night in the fire that destroyed their home despite the heroic efforts of the father to save them.

Sheriff's officers and Coroner Kevin Murphy who investigated the accident said that no inquest will be held. They were at the scene of the fire shortly afterward, and sheriff's officers assisted in the recovery of the body of Lina, four months old. Also fatally burned was Melba, aged 5, who was carried from the burning home by her father.

Sparks from the cookstove in the Brunette home ignited wallpaper which covered the interior of the small log house, located one and one-half miles from Beauchamp's grove on the road to Cornell. The parents and other children in the family, except Melba and Lina, were awake and fully dressed when the fire started, according to reports received by the officers. The two young children were in a bedroom.

Quickly sweeping in the wallpapered room the fire drove the family out. Then Mr. Brunette re-entered the house and began searching for the two missing children in the fire-filled bedroom.

He was unable to locate the younger child but did find the body of Melba and carried her out and across the road to the home of his parents. She was dead.

Mr. Brunette's arms were badly burned in the rescue effort. The body of the youngest child was recovered later by officers from the fiery ruin of the house. She had burned to death in her bed. It was the second time that fire had brought tragedy to the Brunette family. About one and one-half years ago a baby daughter was burned to death when her clothing caught fire in a kerosene blaze.

In response to an appeal for clothing for the family, many garments have been received, Sheriff William E. Miron said.

Pat and Mike Are Now Selling Sand

Hays, Kas. (AP)—Pat and Mike are in business now, and that's no joke, even though their combined age is a scant 21 years.

The pair, operating as the Pat and Mike Sand Co., are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Unrein.

Mike, Jr., 17, does most of the heavy work, driving a one-and-a-half-ton truck on deliveries while Pat just comes along for the ride. They get raw materials from a sand pit on their father's farm near here. The first customers were several oil companies.

In two weeks, Pat and Mike got into the profit column of the ledger and started retiring the $5,500 loan Mike, Sr., made in purchasing the truck and sand loading equipment for his sons.

The profits will go into a bank account to provide an education fund for the young entrepreneurs.

Scientists Study Middle American Vegetable Plant

Cambridge, Mass.—What vitamins, minerals and other nourishment are supplied by a fruit that looks like an apricot, tastes like a chestnut and comes from the pejibaye palm of Costa Rica?

Scientists at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology here will seek the answer as part of an extended nutritional research program being carried on jointly by M. I. T. and the Pan American School of Agriculture of Honduras. The program is sponsored by the United Fruit Company.

All edible plants of Middle America will be similarly analyzed to determine what nourishment they contribute. This is in line with a new viewpoint in nutrition which stresses development in each country of a nutritious diet of native foods instead of the more difficult and costly undertaking of providing inhabitants of tropical countries with more milk, butter and eggs in order to improve their diet.

The native Mexican diet, Dr. Robert S. Harris and colleagues of M. I. T. found in earlier studies, is not as deficient as previously supposed. They found it superior, in certain respects, to the diet of many parts of the United States.

Pacific Northwest Quake Centered In Olympic Peninsula

Washington—The center of disturbance of the Valentine's Day earthquake that shook the Pacific Northwest is believed to be somewhere in the mountainous, densely-forested Olympic peninsula, seismologists of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey in Seattle telephoned to Survey headquarters here. Reports from seismological observatories throughout the country have been delayed, and until they are received an exact fix of the epicenter will not be possible.

This area is rated as a seismic region, though not so active as the California earthquake zone farther south. There was a severe earthquake there in 1939, which did heavy damage to the Washington state capital at Olympia.

The forces of Thursday's shock was not particularly severe as earthquakes go—not to be compared, for example, with the severity of the great Japanese earthquake of 1923. The damage it did to the coast cities was due to their being situated close to the center of greatest disturbance.
